

Uh Oh! Changing Sounds to Fit Your Style

Uh oh! Do some of Alexandria's sounds not quite fit your style? You have the power of change!

By default, Alexandria has particular sounds assigned to particular actions or errors. For example, patron alerts, maximum checked-out items, inventory exceptions and more.

If you want patron alerts to announce themselves with an uh oh, you can do so.

Open your Preferences. In the Configuration category, click on Sounds.

You can customize sounds for any of these occurrences; here's Patron Alert.

You can preview the currently-selected sound by clicking on the little speaker. Use the drop-down menu to change the sound. Now we can preview this one to make sure it's what we want. uh oh
Perfect.

Save the preference.

Of course, you can always change it to any of the other sounds, like the Ringing Bell, or Ta-Da! or back to the Whistle Trill.

Sounds are useful to let you know what's going on, especially when you may not be in front of the screen, for example if you are inventorying with a wireless scanner.

You always have the choice of disabling the Librarian sounds. However, be aware there are some very soft sounds, such as Tick, Whit, Pong, and Fwoo. I just wanted to say that.

So, change the sounds to fit your style, and let it be music to your ears.
